LIBRARY
COLLECTIONS & RESOURCES
Print Collections
The core collections cover various areas of our liberal arts curriculum, including arts and humanities, social sciences, and business studies. The print collections comprise books, reference materials, journals & serials, local & overseas newspapers, AV materials and special collections like thread-bound Chinese classics.

Electronic Collections
In order to let users have 24/7 access to the library resources, we have put significant resources in developing our electronic collections, including e-books, e-journals, databases, examination papers, Video on demand of local TV programmes, videotaped lectures & seminars held at the University.

Digital Commons @ Lingnan University
It is the platform for Lingnan's Digital Repository Service provided by the Library to collect and preserve the scholarship and creative works of our community and to share our intellectual life with a global audience. Its outcomes will showcase the breadth and depth of the University's scholarly activities.

SelectedWorks Author Gallery
SelectedWorks allows our faculty to create a personal website, where he/she can include CV, publications, biography, contact information, photographs or all their scholarly outputs in variety of digital formats.

Lingnan Archives
The Archives focuses on identifying, collecting and preserving original and unique records that document the history of the Lingnan University. It is located on the 2/F South of the Library. It opens every Tuesday to Friday from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. (except public holidays).
Lingnan University Fong Sum Wood Library

The Lingnan University Library was named after the late benefactor Mr. Fong Sum Wood in 1998 and occupies four floors in the Patrick Lee Wan Keung Academic Building. The core collections cover various areas of our liberal arts curriculum, including arts and humanities, social sciences, and business studies. The Chiang Chen Information Commons (IC) provides the Lingnan community a one-stop service for reference, information technology and multimedia services support. The Lee Hak Kan Multimedia and Language Learning Centre (MLLC) is located on the second floor in the North Wing of the Library. MLLC aims to encourage students to improve their language proficiency through independent study. The Library serves the Lingnan community as the cultural centre of the campus, offering boundless opportunities for cultural enrichment and knowledge discovery. Seminars and workshops are organized regularly in MLLC’s mini-theatre. The Lingnan University Archives, located on the second floor of the South Wing of the Library, preserves and showcases the University's history. The Fong Sum Wood Library has long been the hub of academic activities in Lingnan. We strive to provide great services for accessing knowledge on campus.
